

We Make Doors

Architectural wood doors that you'd expect from the industry leader

Google Sales Office—Reston, VA

Internet search giant, Google, opened a sales office in Reston, Virginia, a suburb of Washington D.C. where VT's IDEAL Door Division provided 4 custom doors to personalize the space. Google is known for having a unique job culture, and has been ranked multiple times as Fortune Magazine's #1 Best Place to Work. The Reston, Virginia sales office lives up to the standard. VT's IDEAL Door Division produced oversized doors that were hung in the office with barn door hardware. Plain sliced maple veneers were stained red, blue, and yellow to match the colors in the Google logo. The doors also featured an LSL core and maple stiles.

Precision Door and Hardware, of Alexandria Virginia was the distributor on this unique job. They have been providing and installing architectural doors and hardware to the commercial, industrial, and governmental sectors of the Washington metropolitan area since 1985. In 2008 they were purchased by Stock Building Supply, also one of VT's distributors
